

The UI page provides a clear and consistent structure, allowing a developer to easily locate and navigate through components, typography, and other style elements.

The home page displays clear cases, recent reviews and contains various modal forms for user interaction.

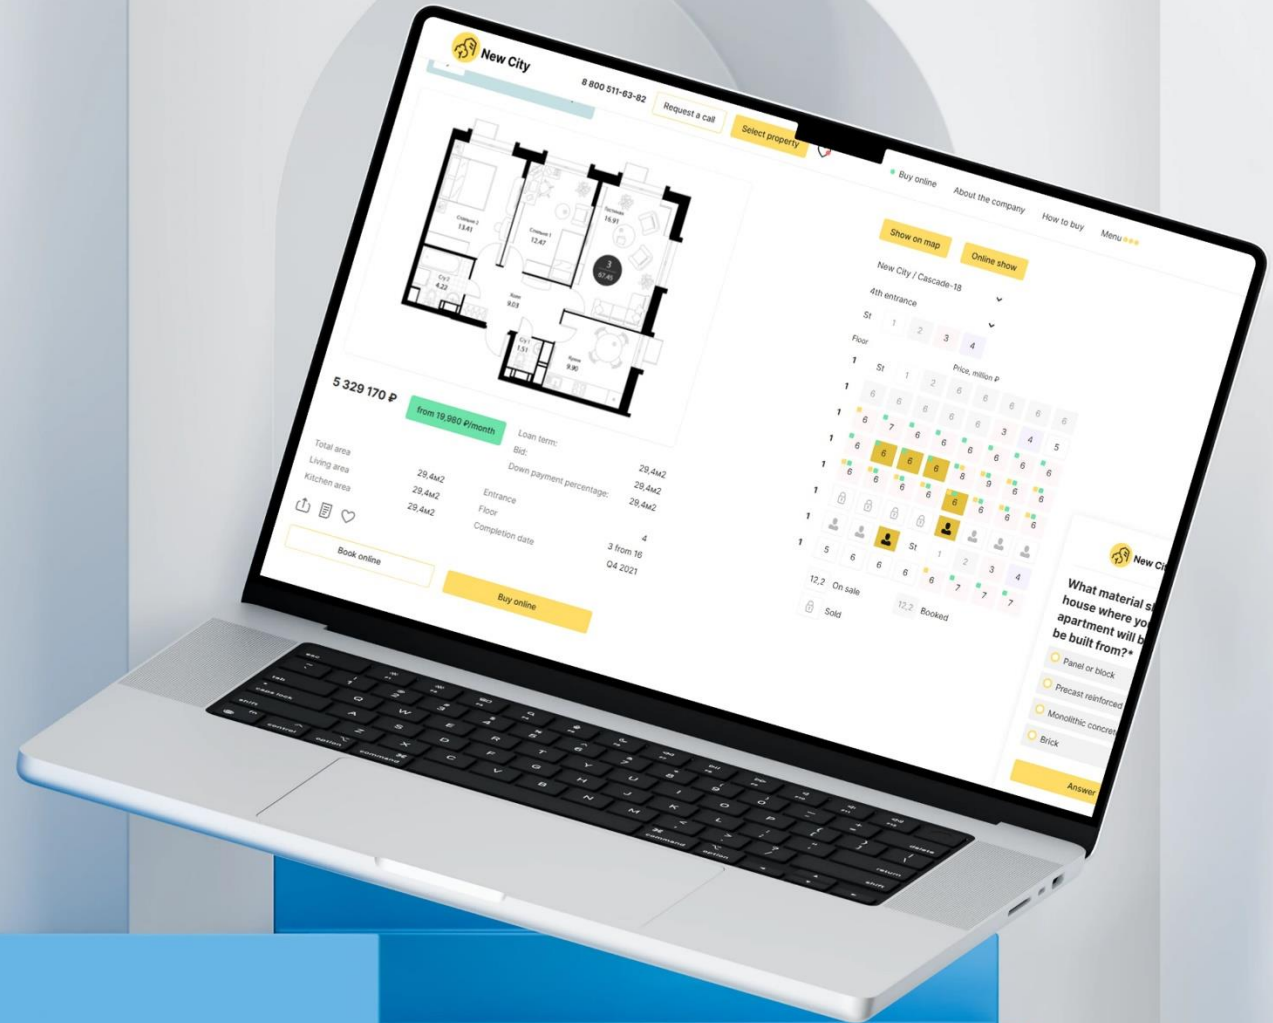

The mobile view shares the same functionality while allowing the user to interact with the quiz and collect important data for future purchases.

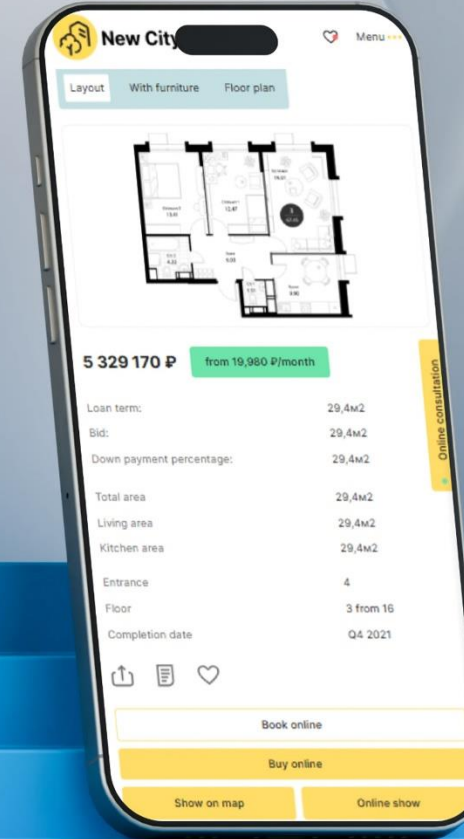

Designed for buyers, the page presents the floor plan, indicates which units are booked, and highlights the apartment's key features.

On mobile devices, the product page adapts for easy viewing, with key details upfront and a prominent “Buy online” button for quick action.

The RC Neighbor page uses interactive popups to display resident profiles. Each popup includes a sticky “Select Apartment” button, allowing for quick and contextual unit selection without losing one's place on the page.
